7	Tests and examinations are conducted well in time with proper coverage of all units in the syllabus (CCA)	5 (83.33)	1 (16.67)	0	0	0	6 (100%)

8	I have the freedom to adapt new techniques/strategies of testing and assessment of students	4(66.67)	1 (16.67)	0	1 (16.67)	0	6 (100%)
9	The environment in the institution is conducive to teaching	3 (50%)	3 (50%)	0	0	0	6 (100%)
10	The government provides adequate support to faculty members for upgrading their skills and qualifications	2 (33.33)	4 (66.67)	0	0	0	6 (100%)
11	Provisions for professional development are non-discriminatory and fair	3(50%)	2(33.33)	1(16.67)	0	0	6 (100%)

The faculty feedback was collected on various aspects related to syllabus design, infrastructural facilities, teaching-learning environment, professional development, and institutional support. A total of 6 responses were received. The interpretation of the results is as follows:

1. Syllabus Relevance – All respondents (100%) either strongly agreed (50%) or agreed (50%) that the syllabus is need-based. This indicates complete alignment of the curriculum with academic and professional requirements.
2. Library Resources – While there is no outright dissatisfaction, the absence of strongly agree responses suggests that faculty members do not perceive the library's resources to be exemplary. The equal split between agreement and neutrality indicates that the library is meeting only the basic requirements but may not be fully aligned with the faculty's expectations in terms of depth, diversity, or updated resources.
3. Balance of Theory and Application – While a majority (83.33%) agreed and 16.67% strongly agreed that the syllabus maintains a good balance between theoretical and practical components, the absence of neutral or negative responses suggests overall satisfaction with course structure.
4. Interest in Subject Area – Half of the respondents (50%) strongly agreed, and 16.67% agreed, that the syllabus has increased their interest in the subject area. However, 33.33% remained neutral, indicating that there is scope for enhancing the engaging aspects of the curriculum.

5. Knowledge and Perspective Enhancement – A combined 83.33% of respondents agreed or strongly agreed that the syllabus has improved their knowledge and perspectives. One respondent (16.67%) remained neutral, suggesting that some faculty may expect deeper enrichment in content.
6. Infrastructural Facilities – No respondent strongly agreed, but 66.67% agreed and 33.33% remained neutral that infrastructure such as faculty rooms, classrooms, reading rooms, and toilets is adequate. This shows general satisfaction but also points to possible improvements in infrastructure quality or availability.
7. Timely Conduct of Tests and Examinations – This aspect received one of the highest positive ratings, with 83.33% strongly agreeing and 16.67% agreeing that tests and examinations are conducted on time and cover the syllabus adequately.
8. Freedom in Assessment Techniques – This reflects complete satisfaction among faculty members regarding autonomy in designing and implementing innovative assessment methods. It also indicates that the institutional culture supports flexibility, creativity, and pedagogical innovation in evaluation processes. However, History subject assistant professor disagrees with this.
9. Institutional Environment – All respondents expressed satisfaction, with an equal split between strongly agree (50%) and agree (50%), that the institutional environment is conducive to teaching.
10. Government Support for Skill Upgradation – A majority (66.67%) agreed and 33.33% strongly agreed that government support for faculty skill and qualification enhancement is adequate, indicating positive perceptions of external support systems.
11. Fairness in Professional Development Opportunities – A total of 83.33% of respondents strongly agreed or agreed that opportunities for professional development are fair and non-discriminatory. However, 16.67% remained neutral, suggesting that perceptions of equity could be further strengthened.

The feedback reflects an overwhelmingly positive perception among faculty members regarding curriculum relevance, resource sufficiency, teaching-learning environment, and professional development support. Areas that could benefit from further attention include increasing engagement levels in the curriculum, enhancing infrastructural facilities, and addressing the concerns of those who feel limited in assessment autonomy.

Holistic development, ethical values, and effective grievance redressal mechanisms are particularly well-appreciated, while the Mentor-Mentee system emerges as the strongest pillar with 65% of parents strongly agreeing to its effectiveness. Overall, the parent community appears highly satisfied, acknowledging the college's role in fostering not only academic excellence but also ethical and holistic development of students. The negligible neutral responses (around 5%) indicate only minor scope for improvement in areas such as academic flexibility, evaluation, and counselling, rather than any major reforms. Parents also suggested appointing an Economics professor and improving the library facilities to further strengthen academic resources.

Overall Suggestions

Based on the analysis of students, teachers and parents feedback for the session 2024–25, it is evident that the institution has received highly positive responses regarding syllabus coverage, teacher preparedness, communication skills, internal evaluation, and the overall quality of the teaching–learning process. Teachers also expressed satisfaction with curriculum relevance, balance between theory and application, institutional environment, and professional development opportunities. However, certain areas require attention, including enrichment of library resources, enhancement of infrastructure such as faculty rooms and reading spaces, and expedited completion of the college building. Students recommended the appointment of teachers for Music and Physical Education (Sports), as well as filling the vacant Librarian and Economics posts. Suggestions also include introducing a bus facility from Ramshehar to the campus, increasing internship and field visit opportunities, and expanding student-centric and skill development initiatives. These measures will help in further strengthening the academic environment, infrastructure, and overall student experience.
